Alice Wu lit a candle in honor of Thomas.

On the first day I met Thomas, he asked if I was really closed with my family, and he said he's very family oriented that family means everything to him, he loved his family very much and enjoyed spending time with them. He always talked about family. He drew a family tree to introduce his family to me. He used to always says how much he loves Fall, and I know that's because it's time for him to be around his family again. He adored and were so proud of having his family. Then we had our own little family for a while and he was so joyous and had tried. He fought hard and I was there to see how difficult life has been to him. I'm praying that he is so happy now he's free from all the sufferings he went through and reunites with his parents, grandparents and other friends and families in heaven. Being spoiled and loved, finally he can rest with his loved ones together.
